FACTSHEET ON ADULT EDUCATION PROFESSIONALISATION (AEP) INITIATIVE

About the AEP Initiative

To raise the quality of the Continuing Education & Training (CET) system, it is important that we enable all Adult Education (AE) professionals, including those delivering training outside of the Singapore Workforce Skills Qualifications (WSQ) system, to continue to deepen their professional skills, and to be recognised for their mastery of skills. This is particularly so in view of the crucial role that professionals in Training and Adult Education (TAE) play in supporting the national SkillsFuture movement to impart knowledge and skills to our workforce. As of 2016, there are about 5,900 Adult Educators in Singapore who are actively involved in the delivery of publicly-funded CET programmes under the WSQ System.

The national AEP initiative is a step forward in creating a strong, dynamic and forward-looking Adult Education profession in Singapore. It was first piloted by the Institute for Adult Learning (IAL) in May 2015, to map out how AE professionals can continue to deepen their skills, and be recognised by the industry for their pedagogical and professional excellence. The initiative, officially launched in January 2017, was endorsed by the Training and Adult Education Skills Council, which comprises leading training providers, enterprises, trade unions as well as the Government agencies.

Participation in AEP is voluntary and AE professionals who meet the eligibility criteria will be recognised as an Associate Adult Educator (AAE) or Specialist Adult Educator (SAE) or Adult Education Fellow (AEF), depending on their skills mastery and area of specialisation. AEF is the highest level of recognition, and is invitation-based or by nomination only, based on the AE professional's achievements and contributions. The AEF category, which represents the highest accolade of the three tier AEP initiative, aims to recognise exemplary individuals at the pinnacle of AE practice. The structure of the AEP initiative is in Figure 1.

The recognition of AE professionals’ expertise and qualification will be reviewed once every three years to ensure that they maintain currency in their practice and uphold the necessary continuous professional development requirements of their AEP titles.

Benefits of the AEP Initiative

AE professionals recognised under the AEP initiative can gain access to a range of benefits to advance their professional standing and professionalism, thereby contributing to the mastery of skills and raising of CET quality. These benefits include opportunities for job and practice engagement to enhance their practice, business and networking within the professional community, and exclusive continuing professional development to raise their pedagogical and professional competencies. These AE professionals are also eligible for the SkillsFuture Study Award under the TAE sector to pursue deepening specialised skills needed for Singapore's future growth and demand. With these clear benchmarks, organisations also have visibility and assurance in the TAE professionals they engage and the sector collectively gets levelled up with better capability to support the SkillsFuture movement.

In addition to the professional recognition of their experience, quality and strengths, these professionals can display their titles of AAE, SAE or AEF in their corporate stationery, such as business cards and email sign-offs. Their profiles will also be featured on IAL's website to provide them with added visibility on their domain and specialisation.

Be Part of the AEP Initiative

Interested AE professionals can find out more about the AEP initiative and make an application at www.ial.edu.sg/aep where they meet the eligibility criteria. Enterprises and training organisations can similarly tap on this platform to look for suitable AE professionals for their training needs.
